LITTLE BIT

...on most anything

News-Sentinl columnist M.J. Vercoe, who is well known to most Peninsulans and many others as a truly dedicated newspaper letter writer, has written a column elsewhere on this page that should draw some comment.

He interviewed members of The Losers, well-known motorcycle club, even attended one of their meetings. The resulting column, he says, is merely "as I see it."

If he gets some comment -- especially adverse -- we imagine he'll be elated. At any rate your letters are encouraged.

The story on The Losers is timely. Just two weeks ago several of their members had a rather tense confrontation with owners and patrons of the GI Coffeehouse in the old bus station in Seaside.

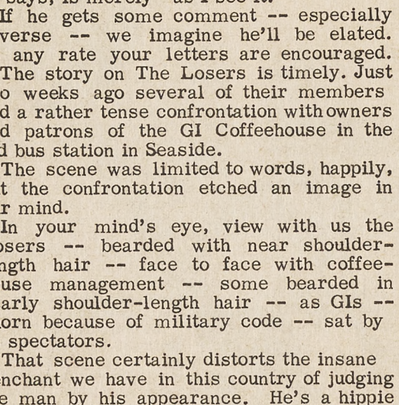

The scene was limited to words, happily, but the confrontation etched an image in our mind.

In your mind's eye, view with us the Losers -- bearded with near shoulder-length hair -- face to face with coffeehouse management -- some bearded in nearly shoulder-length hair -- as GIs -- shorn because of military code -- sat by as spectators.

That scene certainly distorts the insane penchant we have in this country of judging the man by his appearance. He's a hippie if his hair touches his ears - he's square if he's crew cut -- that from the one side of the gap; reverse it if you're on the other. And if hair won't do it, clothes will. Blacks used to laugh at the fairskins because they couldn't type them as anything but black; now, the black sterotypes are nearly as pronounced.

It's all sickness because there is no way that character, intelligence, speech, compassion, hate, love can positively reveal themselves through appearance.

Preaching is dangerous for a layman, but it certainly wouldn't hurt us to remember this week as Christians mourn His death and celebrate His resurrection the images artists have made for us of Christ.

With everyone's mind on the post office this week, ponder over this sobering statistic.

The volume of first class mail dispatched from the Seaside Post Office has dropped markedly this year. Local postal officials say from volume of as high as 24,000 pieces a day sent from Seaside during the Christmas season, the number has dropped as low as 5,000 during the first two months of 1970. The average over recent years has been some 12,000 pieces a day.

Meanwhile Monterey's volume is up, and Marina, Fort Ord and Pacific Grove postal officials say their volume is about the same or slightly under a year ago.

If you want an interesting sensation drive to any of countless vantage points in the northern area of Noche Buena around Ord Terrace and cast an eye toward the bay. Rising up to block your view of the beach is a huge bare sand dune.

Now imagine that sand dune if 40,000 youths were sitting on it listening to some 40 rock bands during a proposed rock festival this weekend.

Chances are you'll probably not get to see the real thing, but the prospect of it certainly is wild. And if it does happen, that's what it will be, really!

CML

Everyone is welcome, according to Lee Toler and Jimmy Roy of YAFA, and they emphasized that there will be no admission.

Murray

Avery

Murray, Avery file for assembly

Two Seaside residents will be on the ballot to try to unseat Assemblyman Bob Wood this fall.

Oliver Murray and Brady Avery turned in their nominating papers last week before the Friday filing deadline.

Murray will be on the June 2 ballot as seeking the Democratic nomination and Avary will seek the Peace & Freedom Party nomination. Neither has an opponent so both will also appear on the general election ballot next November against Wood, who also is unopposed. Mrs. Joan Amador of Monterey filed unopposed for the American Independent Party nomination.

Murray, 49, is currently in the middle of his first term as city councilman in Seaside. He ran second in a six-way race for two seats in 1968.

A longtime Democrat, Murray has been active in recent campaigns and locally headed the drive for the successful statewide presidental primary victory of the late Sen. Rovert F. Kennedy.

He and his wife andfour children live at 2055 Lassen in Seaside. He is administrator of Beverly Manor Convalscent Hospital in Carmel.

Avery jumped into the local political spotlight last year when he lead an unsecessful recall movement against San City Mayor Phil Calabrese and the rest of the city council. The recall grew out of Avery's charges that the San City council tried to run him out of business. He since has closed his auto repair shop in Sand City and moved to 1367 Luxton in Seaside.

Avery, 46, now is a partner in Peninsula Pep Boys Pichfield Service station at Del Monte and Contra Costa in Seaside.

He served nine years in the U.S. Army, seeing combat during World War II, and another nine as a civil servant at Fort Ord, before going into business in 1965.

Coffeehouse to decide

Owners of the GI Coffeehouse were due to decide this week whether to take their case to the courts.

The coffeehouse last Thursday lost ist appeal to the city council for a permit for a bookstore in conjunction with its already permitted restaurant use.

The council denied the appeal on zoning grounds, rejecting the coffeehouse contention that denial was tantamount to violation of the free speech amendment to the Constitution.

The 4-1 vote denying the appeal had Steve Ross in opposition, with Mayor Lou Haddad and councilmen Oliver Murray, Bud Houser and Emil Schmidt favoring it.

Withdrawals leave apparent 4-way council race

Seaside's city council race April 14 has apparently narrowed to a head-to-head battle with only four candidates remaining in the race.

Withdrawing officially last week were Pete Cruz, David Mitchell, and Ed Battle and Henry Burney was due to leave the race this week.

This left incumbents Emil Schmidt and Bud Houser opposed by Pearl Carey and Jerry McGrath, and the issue is clearly the Establishment against the anti-Establishment forces that have tried to gain control of city government for years.

There's no political labels permitted in city elections, but the persuasion of Schmidt and Houser is clearly conservative and the bent of Mrs. Carey and McGrath is equally clearly liberal.

The mayor's race is still three-way, with Mayor Lou Haddad, the leader of the Establishment forces, opposed by Councilman Steve Ross, leader of the 'anti' forces. Richard Hamilton is also in the race. Hamilton vowed when he entered the race that he would not withdraw this time, as we did four years ago.

The first of the withdrawals came from Pete Cruz, who had entered the race when Haddad still was undeclared as a candidate. But when Haddad got in the race, that made Houser's decision, to run for re-election (he had said he would run for mayor if Haddad didn't). Cruz has been identified with the Haddad tenure and when he withdrew last week, he predictably threw his support to Schmidt and Houser.

The other four, on the other hand, are all due to support the Carey-McGrath slate. The prime mover in their withdrawals was a coalition group formed several months ago to solidify the black community politically. And with Battle's and Burney's leaving there will only be two blacks in the election--Ross and Mrs. Carey.

Despite their withdrawals however, all candidates who filed and were certified will be on the ballot.

City employees get raises

City employees will get salary adjustments amounting to increases at from 5 to 7.5 per cent in wages beginning April 1.

The adjustments agreed on in an executive session of the council last week were the result of recommendations of Griffenhagen-Kroeger, a management consulting firm doing a study for the city.

The adjustments also contain an across-the-board raise for the employees the first of next year.

It will cost the city about $17,000 between now and the end of the fiscal year, June 30, and some $65,000 next fiscal year.

Councilmen did not outline how the increase will affect next year's budget.

Final voter registration totals

FINAL voter registration totals for the nine consolidated polling precincts in the April 14 city elections were announced this week. Registrations total 5,627, which is 268 more than in the 1968 council election. Added this year, however, are 287 voters from Fort Ord, which wasn't annexed to the city in the 1968 vote. Without Ord, the total is 5,340, or 19 fewer than two years ago. This year's total is also far under the 1966 election, the last time a mayor was elected. That year 6,229 were registered. The map shows the letter designation for combined polling precinct and the total currently registered.

'Who Cares' columnist visits the Losers

comment

As a "nobody in particular" I can punch a bartender in the nose or maybe be caught breaking some other law, and in all likelihood the incident would never reach the pages of a newspaper.

But if I was a prominent businessman, or a minister, or a Scoutmaster, then such an act becomes newsworthy, and an item entitled, "Prominent Minister Breaks Bottle of Booze Over Local Cop's Head," would be read with relish by everyone in the community - that is, everyone except maybe the minister.

There are some organizations and individuals who seek out publicity, and go to great lengths to obtain it. Mediocre governors kiss babies, government officials startle us with unbelievable statements of policy, and radicals espouse various causes that are ridiculous but look good as headlines.

And there are some individuals and organizations who have, by their actions or appearance or associations, put themselves in the position of being very, very newsworthy, and almost everything they do hits the newspapers, because this is what people want to read. Maybe most of us wish we could do similar things at times, but we are destined to live out our lives as just plain, toe-the-line people.

I visited the "Losers Motorcycle Club" a few days ago in an attempt to find out if they were the kind of people that many of us have been led to believe they are.

Their clubhouse is a small home on Elm Avenue in the City of Seaside. Three motorcycles were parked at the curb, and a black rubber mat led from the sidewalk to the front door. The inside of the home was neatly kept, and coffee was being made in a large coffee maker in the kitchen.

The young men who were there were members of the club, except for one other visitor. they were all very well-mannered and courteous. The President of the club, "Corky" Boosinger, explained to me that the club had been started in Monterey on February 1, 1967, by Tom O'Leary and seven other young men. Their purpose - to get together to share a common interest, motorcycling. The name, "Losers", was just picked at random. The club is independent.

However, the various clubs occasionally host each other on visits. The Losers take a trip about once a month, sometimes as far as Los Angeles. The trips are well planned. They know what they are to do (attend races, etc.) and they know where they are going to stay.

Corky pointed out that they do not take part in races or hill climbs. The motorcycles they use are not suitable for this purpose, and most of them are modified in some manner for performance or comfort or appearance on the highway. A typical Loser motorcycle is a "74" Harley, which has 1200cc in piston displacement (the same size as used by police departments). Such a vehicle new would cost up to $3000 complete, but the average Lose bike was purchased second-hand for $300 or $400 and modified and built up to a value to the owner of perhaps $2,000.

Losers range in age from a minimum 21 years to 42. There is no maximum age. About half dozen of the Losers are married, a couple are businessmen, some are students and others are in building and other trades.

Not just anybody can become a member. Compared with regular, better known clubs the Losers are very particular about who can join their club. Because they are a relatively small group, they feel a kinship that is rarely found in larger groups.

When a Loser commits some offense in the eyes of the law or of society, he does it as an individual, not as a representative of the club, and although the club may try to help him at the moment or later to clear himself if possible, they may very much disapprove of his actions, and he faces disciplinary action within the club itself.

Politically, the Losers are neutral. Many of them are veterans, and they disapprove of organizations they feel may not represent the best interests of their country. In general, however, they believe in "live and let live", and do not seek trouble. On the other hand, if someone shoves trouble right in front of them, they are not likely to walk off and leave it standing there.

The Losers are well aware that they rate on the community acceptance scale. They do not resent this attitude, because they recognize the reasons - a general misunderstanding of who they are and what their club is; a somewhat distorted image of motorcycle clubs in general because of adverse publicity in magazine articles, news reports and movies; noise from their engines, sometimes unavoidable and sometimes admittedly avoidable but not condoned by the club.

The Losers would like to find a larger place to meet, preferably a home or other suitable building they could rent at nominal cost that would not be in a densely populated residential area. Members of the community who don't especially care much about riding motorcycles might be interested in helping them find such a place.

They pay their rent on time, their landlord is happy with them, they feel that they are a part of the community just like everyone else, and except that they own motorcycles and belong to a club made up of motorcycle owners, they are just plain average young men who like motorcycle riding far too much to give it up for any reason short of a general national calamity.

But I, with my little old station wagon, still have one big advantage over them. As a "nobody in particular" I can walk up to a complete stranger or anybody else for that matter, and I can sock him on the nose and maybe get locked up, and nobody would ever read about it in the newspapers.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

London, Eng. (WMNS)- Hail the lowly oil of peppermint, known to the ancient Greeks and just rousingly endorsed by the august British Medical Journal for its "swift and universal action" in producing burps.

Known formally as carminatives, such volatile oils as peppermint, cardamom, dill, ginger, cinnamon and cloves are used for bawling infants and "patients complaining of wind," as well as in liqueurs and as seasonings.

Carminatives, usually sold in alcoholic solutions (tinctures), are praised as "useful, pleasant and (apparently) without side-effects," producing "an almost immediate sensation of warmth" in the upper reaches of the abdomen followed within a few minutes by a well-rounded easeful belch.

Alas, carminatives also appear in onions and garlic, leading to the suspicion that they may produce unwelcome heartburn. Still, says the BMJ, they "have stood the test of time well."

CONSUMER POWER

By YVONNE EARNST

Is refunding worth your time? Is earning $2 or $3 an hour, tax-free, worth your time? Difficult as it is to keep a completely accurate record of income and time spent on refunding, I did try to do it over a period of two months last year. And I found that I netted about $3 an hour.

Efficient use of time is required to accomplish that, though. Some methods to increase your efficiency have been covered in the previous few columns. Efficiency is really the key. Without a notebook, your efforts will become a jumble. Without a file, your boxtops will be a nuisance. So, spend a little extra time initially to set up a good system -- and benefit from it for years.

Your expenses in refunding should be deducted when calculating your net earnings. Those would be the cost of refund publication subscriptions (one or two) stamps, envelopes (buy in buil) and any extra expenses incurred at the grocery store (when buying a premium-priced product for a refund rather than your usual lower-priced choice, deduct the difference in cost.)

Another optional expense would be service fees to refund form exchanges. Most refund offers are extended to any customer who buys the product. But, due to past abuse by some refunders, there are now some companies that require official refund forms.

These forms are either sent to grocers through the mail, or are distributed by salesmen. In some cases, companies intentionally restrict their distribution to certain areas where sales need a boost. Pillsbury usually uses this method.

Pillsbury recently offered a $2 refund for 3 of their cake mix tops plus 3 of their frosting mix tops - or $1 for the 3 cake mix tops alone. But the form had to accompany the proofs-of-purchase. There was no geographical restriction printed on the form, but they were in fact, distributed only in stores where sales needed a boost. For refunders who lived outside those areas, the only way to obtain a form was through the form exchanges. Writing to the company, in this case, brought a polite answer--but no form.

Then Crest launched a generous $2 refund offer for either 3 or 4 Crest carton panels. You could have $1 of the refund without a special form, just for sending in the proofs - of - purchaseand your name and address. But to get the $2 refund, you had to have the form. In this case, geographical restrictions were quite specifically listed on the form. As soon as it closed in one area, it was announced in another area. It has not yet been announced in California, so save those Crest cartons -- and tell your druggists and grocers that you are interested in forms for the campaign as soon as it is announced.

Avid refunders in California- and probably in other states - were rankled by the fact that the campaign has repeatedly been advertised on national television networks, with the usual, "hurry down to your store for a form," and yet the offer was not really national.

The refund publications deal individually in their editorial policies, with the problem of required forms. "QuickSilver" uses a new system of stars to indicated the chances of receiving a refund without a form. Since "QuickSilver's" editor has years of experience behind him, his judgments are respected. "FireFly" and "Refund Reports" specify whether or not a form is required, and then offer subscribers a form exchange service, fully explained in their publicatins. "Money Tree" claims to publish only refunds available without forms, but as policies of companies can change in the middle of a campaign, they are often caught in the middle.

"Money Tree' list Stokely's refund campaigns in their publication, but this company will honor only one request from you without a form. Then, they send a polite letter, saying that you will need a form the next time. Some refunders have been successful on second and third tries (on different campaigns) and some have actually been caught on the second try and refused. So, it probably is not worth the postage the second time.

We will talk more about forms and form exchanges next week, and will answer some questions which have been coming in, so joing us here at Consumer Power.

Schools slash costs—Bus schedule cut

Cutback in school bus services by one mile of eligibility to ride went into effect in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Friday.

Service will not be offered kindergarten children and pupils in grades 1-6 who live within a two-mile radium of school Service is discontinued for junior high students grades 7,8 and 9 who live within two-and-one-half miles of school. Senior high students grades 10, 11 and 12 who live within three miles of school may not ride the school bus. A system of school bus passes probably will be put into effect soon. Bus service is discontinued entirely for seven schools: Del Monte, Larkin, Hayes, and Marina Del Mar elementary schools, and Fremont, King and Los Arboles Junior high schools.

Change in bus service, the district explained, was because the school district will receive only about 78 per cent of the money previously expected under a federeal grant. This law, which supports education of pupils whose families are government-connected, has been operative since 1950. Twenty per cent of the district's million budget is based on the anticipated income from this source, which in the past has been paid at about 98 per cent.

Another economy which will directly affect students and parents is reduction of the school year by one week from a closing date of June 12 ro a closing date of June 5.

The anticipated loss in operating funds this year from the law was announced first as $582,000, but has been recomputed to $613,000. District reserves are only about $150,000.

Cutback in bus service will mean a saving of about $11,000. Reduction of the school year from 180 to 175 days will save an estimated $15,000.

The reduction in goods and services for 1969-70 are not caused by failure of the Feb. 17 tax election, because even if that had passed the income would not have been received until 1970-71.

A SANDWICH FIND

In 1870 the dessert Baked Alaska was created by New York's famed Delmonico Restaurant in honor of the American purchase of the territory of Alaska.

The main ingredient of this 1970 sandwich Alaska is king crab from our 49th state. It's seasoned and mixed with cooked egg yolks, then spread over crisp HOLLAND Rusk. Beaten egg whites and cheese are piled over the crab and the sandwiches are baked to golden perfection.

A bonanza—only 39 calories per rusk!

CRAB MEAT ALASKA
2 eggs, separated
1/3 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon cayenne
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons finely chopped onion
1/4 cup thinly sliced celery
1 (7 1/2 ounce) can Alaska king crab meat, flaked
4 HOLLAND Rusk
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Separate egg yolks from whites being careful not to break yolks. Cook yolks in simmering water to cover, 10 minutes or until cooked through. Crumble. Combine next eight ingredients. Add yolks and blend well. Place about 1/3 cup mixture on each rusk, mounding slightly. Arrange in a shallow baking pan. Beat egg whites until they form stiff, moist peaks; fold in cheese. Pile on crab meat filling. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350°F.) until the meringue is delicately browned, 12 to 15 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 crab meat Alaskas.

Who Cares ?

M.J. VERCOE

So you are a citizen of the United States, and you have decided for some reason or another to seek public office here in our great state. And you are qualified, being over 21 or whatever and of reasonably sound mind in spite of income tax forms and television, and if you have committed any heinous crimes, you were fortunate enough to not get cuaght and convicted of such.

But now you have another obstacle. Being more businessminded or intelligent than most of us, you have invested in property or saved your money, and now you have a tidy nest egg in a safe deposit box in the sum of ten thousand dollars and one cent. In addition, you have managed to pay your house payments on time and now have an equity of one thousand dollars in your thirty thousand dollar home.

And just so you don't get any ideas about keeping these things a secret, you will be abliged to tell us all about them if you want to run for public office. As your neighbor who might have voted for you if I had not known these secrets, I would be appalled that you could have so much money in the bank and not volunteer to pay off the mortgage on our church. And I would be surprised to learn that you, of all people, who everybody thought was such a prominent citizen, only had a thousand dollar equity in your home.

Your possible arguments that your personal affairs, including legal financial dealings, should not be anyone's business, are to no avail. We want to know all the lurid details, and as average, upstanding apathetic citizens, we prefer to judge you not for your business ability or good judgement, but for your ability to explain somehow, if you can, how you got so far ahead of the rest of us.

State tax deadline

Single persons with $3,250 income and married couples with $6,500 combined income during 1969 must file California personal income tax returns by April 15.

These filing requirements are specified on the personal income tax forms mailed to taxpayers, according to Martin Huff, Executive Officer of the Franchise Tax Board. There are a number of people who have not been mailed forms, however, Huff said.

Anyone who moved since April 1969, new residents and persons filing for the first time would not normally receive forms through the mail. This does not relieve them of the responsibility of filing nor is it cause for waiving laae filing penalties, Huff said.

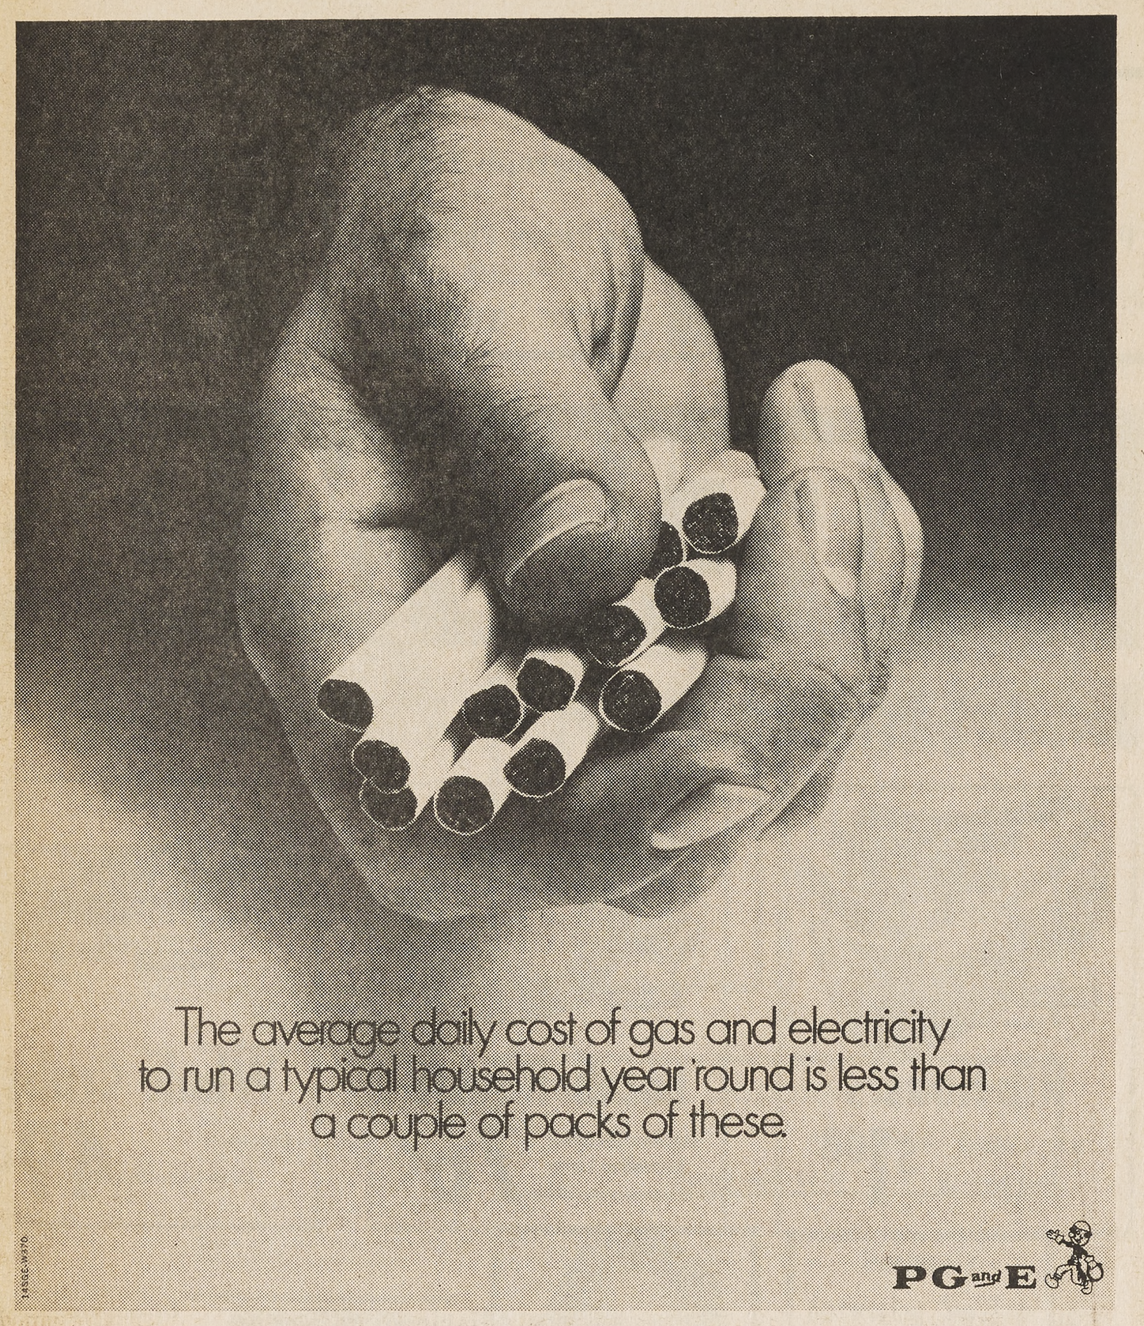

Forms have been made available at 4,800 public distribution points throughout the State. These include banks, chambers of commerce, U.S. post offices, offices of the State Board of Equalization, Department of Motor Vehicles, Department of Employment and local offices of the Franchise Tax Board. In addition, forms may be obtained by writing to the Franchise Tax Board, 1025 P Street, Sacramento, 95814.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Form 1040 U.S. Individual ... Your 1st name and initial (if joint return) ... Last name ... Your soc. sec. (Husband)

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) What are the rules on the sick pay exclusion for pay received while you're out sick or injured?

A) It depends on how much you received in pay for the time you were out. If your company paid you over 75 percent of your regular salary while you were sick, there is a 30-day waiting period whether or not you were hospitalized at any time. After it expires, you may exclude up to $100 a week from your income as sick pay.

If you received 75 percent or less of your regular pay, there is a 7-day waiting period. Then you may exclude up to $75 a week. After 30 days, you may exclude up to $100 a week as sick pay. If you had been hospitalized, there is no seven-day waiting period.

This provision of the law is explained at greater length on page E-2 of the Form 1040 instructions. Be sure to check the instructions if you think you are entitled to claim this exclusion.

Q) Is it true that if you're over 65 you're not taxed when you sell your home?

A) There will be no tax to pay if you were 65 or older before the date of the sale, the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less, and you owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for five of the eight years preceding the sale. If the adjusted sale price was over $20,000, you may exclude part of your gain.

Details on this and other tax benefits for those 65 and over are contained in IRS Publication 554, Tax Benefits for Older Americans. Drop a post card to your IRS district office for a free copy.

Q) Where do I claim exemptions on the Form 1040?

A) Show the number of exemptions you claim for yourself, your spouse and others on lines 7, 8 and 9 of Form 1040. Then if you use the tax tables to compute your tax, find the amount of tax due in the column that shows your income and your total exemptions from line 10. If you don't use the tax tables, a $600 credit for each of your exemptions on line 10 should be taken on Schedule T when you compute your tax.

A few taxpayers have taken credit for their exemptions on line 15b of Form 1040. This is wrong and will delay any refund due. The only adjustments that should be shown on line 15b are those for sick pay, moving expenses, employee business expenses, and payments to self-employed retirement plans.

Q) My wife doesn't work so why is it so important for her to sign our tax return?

A) A tax return is a legal document and the signatures of both husband and wife are required on joint returns. This is true even if only one had income.

Q) What should I do if I move before my refund comes?

A) Leave a forwarding address with the Post Office so that the refund can be delivered to your new address. Failure to do this held up the refunds of many taxpayers last year until an up-to-date address could be obtained.

Taxpayers who expect to get refunds but have delayed filing their returns can get fast service if they file now.

Boats now under DMV

Boat registration in California as of this week has become the responsibility of the Department of Motor Vehicles rather than the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (formerly Harbors and Watercraft).

"No disruption of service to the boating public or to boat dealers should occur," emphasized Registrar of Motor Vehicles John L. McLaughlin. "Boat registration personnel from Navigation and Ocean Development will function as before, but under the DVM roof. They will retain the same telephone numbers.

McLaughlin said that the boating public and boating industry will continue to register boats as they do now; through private boat dealers authorized to act as boat registry agents, at automobile clubs and at DVM offices.

FOR MAYOR OF SEASIDE

STEVE ROSS SPEAKS OUT ON JOBS & MANPOWER

As Mayor of Seaside, I would develop a manpower and human resource element to our general plan for the city of Seaside.

This element will establish basic goals, standards, principles, objectives, and priorities that will create a climate in our city which would encourage business and professional people to live in the city. It will also provide a climate for the other people of our city to "live most, and serve best" as part of the "here and now."

The manpower and human resources element will include emplementation of our current professional staff study but not limited to the following:

a. The preparation of a local employment and manpower study as a component of the cities general plan.

b. Establishment of a fulltime official department to deal with the full array of municipal social needs including the problems of human relation, the aging, the youth, and any other citizen in need of personal service and attention.

c. Create a manpower advisory Committee to include representatives of public and private agencies and community organizations with bustantial manpower interests.

d. Develop a community manpower system relating employment and manpower training programs to the employment needs of the community taking into particular consideration the employment of youth, minorities and senior citizens.

e. Utilize and participate in federally sponsored manpower development and training programs. Also assume leadership in encouraging community employers to participate.

f. Develop the new careers concept to open up permanent career opportunities at entry and sub-professional levels by restructuring job content, recruitment, selection and training standards, thus attacking the shortage of skilled and professional workers in government and industry while assisting the disadvantaged and unemployed.

g.
